

Ryan Financial Lines provides cyber and technology solutions designed to equip large and multinational businesses with cover that will reflect their risk. By understanding how our Insureds' operations may be affected by a potential cyber event we can assess the financial implications which may follow. This allows us to align our insurance product with risk management strategies and to offer a program that offers assistance with the ongoing success of a business. As part of our tailored underwriting process, Ryan Financial Lines identifies potential cyber events that could affect an applicant's operations and the financial implications of such an event. Ryan Financial Lines' insurance offering is aligned to the applicant's strategies that offset these unforeseen performance interruptions.

The modern company is often heavily reliant on technology to deliver services to its Insureds. Ryan Financial Lines' 3rd party cyber proposition can be extended to provide professional liability to cutting edge technology firms or other companies whose operations are technology centric.

Ryan Financial Lines has a broad risk appetite, offering customized solutions to companies of different sizes, industries and geographies.
